Masks

There are several different types of masks you may see people wearing in the hospital.

These masks help to keep us from sharing our germs with each other.